BIOBLITZ. Part-community engagement event and part-scientific endeavor, this event will generate region-scale scientific data about the health and recovery of our watersheds that include biological and physical measurements using a bio-blitz approach. Participants will have the opportunity to collect meaningful data, meet river scientists, learn about data collection methods used to understand watershed health, and take a mini watershed tour.

CELEBRATION. Join us at La Vern Johnson Park in Lyons for a community celebration of watersheds. Hands-on watershed activities will be available for the whole family, including opportunities to meet river scientists, try out data collection methods, and learn about your watershed.
